JOHN H. CURRIN KILLED AT LAYTON.

A Well Known Official of the Washington Run Railroad.

WAS CROSSING BETWEEN CARS

When an Engine Bumped Into Train Catching Him Between the Draw-heads—Had Been With the Company Since the Road Was Built.

John H. Currin, one of the best known residents of the north end of town, was killed while at his work at Layton station last evening about 6 o'clock. Mr. Currin was well known to the Washington Run Railroad Company at Layton. He met with injuries that soon ended in death while attempting to cross between two trains.

Merchandise local was laying at Layton doing some switching and another train pulled almost up to the caboose of the local; to within about 10 feet of it. When Mr. Currin stepped to the spot between the two draw-heads the local switched a car against the train forcing it back to the engine behind. It held him there for some time before the local engine could go ahead.

On being released Mr. Currin was rushed to Perryopolis where Dr. J. L. Cochran was to have met the train. As Dr. Cochran was not there they started towards West Junction, but he passed away soon after the train left Perryopolis.

The merchandise local had engine No. 515 with Conductor M. McClellan and engine No. 2234 with Conductor Schroyer was on the other train.

Mr. Currin had formerly lived at Layton, but removed his family to Perryopolis last spring to a new home. He was employed by the Washington Run railroad as warehouseman, yardmaster and also as other duties. He was well liked and respected by everyone in the community and will be greatly missed.

John H. Currin was born at Millersburg, Centre county, Pa., July 1, 1851, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Currin, the former a prominent newspaper man of Centre county. Both parents are now dead. He received his education in the public schools and at Lock Haven and Indiana State Normal schools where he ranked high as a student. For several years Mr. Currin followed teaching. He went to Layton station from Pittsburgh 12 years ago as warehouseman and yardmaster for the Washington Run railroad, being practically in charge of the operation of the road since it was built. December 2, 1891, he married Miss Harriet Carson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carson, prominent old residents of Layton. His wife and daughter, Winifred, surviving. He has two brothers, George, of Pittsburgh, and Scott of Booneville, N. Y., and two sisters, Anna of Deposit, N. Y., and Martha of Millersburg.

Mr. Currin was a member of the Lutheran church of Pittsburgh, but was an active worker in the Methodist Episcopal church of Layton. He was a charter member of St. O. U. A. M. of Layton and of the Knights of Malta of Perryopolis, and a member of the Royal Arcanum, Order of the Moose, Knights of Pythias and the Odd Fellows of Pittsburgh.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon from his late home at Perryopolis cemetery. Interment in Mt. Washington cemetery.

Visited in Intown.

Harry W. Smith and Miss Jeanne Foltz, a well known couple of Dunbar, were married yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Second Presbyterian Church in Intown. Rev. W. Scott Hummer, the pastor, officiating. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Foltz and is well known in Connellsville. The bridegroom is employed at the West Penn power house.

James P. A. well known freight conductor on the Baltimore branch, who had many acquaintances in Fayette county, shot himself in the Youngwood hotel yesterday afternoon and died from the wound at 10 o'clock last night. He had been in good spirits during the day and no reason can be assigned for his suicide.

He was not called for a run yesterday and spent the day at the Youngwood hotel where he had boarded for three years. About noon he was in the bar room of the hotel and chatted pleasantly with the bartender. It was his last lively conversation. Leaving the barroom he went to his own room and locked the door. Ten minutes later a revolver shot was heard and the report was taken in his room. His name was called and when an answer came the door was burst open. A ghastly sight met the eyes of the searchers. He was lying on the side of the bed with blood flowing from a gaping wound

A Heavy Storm Visits Scottdale

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, Sept. 28.—One of the most terrific rains in years accompanied by a dazzling brilliant electrical storm passed over town last night about 8 o'clock. The rain was the down pour of the century and flowed over the Pittsburgh street car, washing into the cellars of stores along that street. Ashes from Chestnut street, which is being paved, were carried to Broadway and over the curbs onto the railroad property. For the third time this summer M. B. Porter's stable was washed shut with mud on the alley back of Market street, and from the Chestnut street excavations, while Dr. S. W. Newman and Rev. C. W. Hendrickson's properties were also loaded up with mud from the streets. The recent clearing up of the ditch along the alley is said to be responsible for this. It is reported that fields were washed in the country in very bad shape. Those ready for wheat sowing are said to have been skinned of the plowed ground, causing much damage.

Hard Rain Swept Town Last Night

This section was swept by another hard rain again last night and early this morning. There was a shower yesterday afternoon that proved to be merely a forerunner of what was to come later. It was about 7:30 that the first real hard rain began falling. The downpour continued for half an hour and by 8 o'clock Main street took on the appearance of a turbid river. The gutters were swept by a current which reached out as far as the car tracks and for a time passengers were unable to reach West Penn street cars from the sidewalk. The water went off in the course of a few minutes after the worst of the rain had ceased.

About 10 o'clock there came a second torrent of rain that was even worse than the first one and during the night the downpour continued.

The river rose nearly two feet during the night, from 2:30 last evening to 4:10 this morning. The temperature remained around a point that brought a hint of vest and heavier clothing and the water was in the gutter this morning was 62 degrees and 71 last evening.

Fayette Veterans Assemble Today

The Fayette County Veterans' Association in holding its annual reunion today at Uniontown. Practically all of the Connellsville veterans of the Civil War are in attendance. The veterans are furnished free transportation to the reunion each year and are given a royal welcome at the county seat.

The veterans enrolled at the City Hall this morning and received their badges. A business session was held this morning with a few speeches, and then the veterans were taken to the county house, where dinner was served. This afternoon the camp fire will be held at the City Hall, where the battle of the war will again be fought.

Recover Property; Owner Now Missing

Officer Thomas McDonald last evening recovered six overcoats, two suit cases and a pair of children's overcoats belonging to James Collins, an itinerant itinerant, but the owner is more than halfway to his home in Cumberland, Md., Saturday when he became intoxicated here and last night he followed the loss to the police, served time for his loss and then disappeared.

Yesterday Arthur Leiberger of Peach Creek found the staff in the rear room of his home and reported it to the police. The articles are being held at the layup in care of the return for Collins gave his home as Boston, Mass.

Off to Michigan. James C. Munn, 18, left this morning for Ann Arbor, Mich., where he will enter the University of Michigan Law School. The young man is a graduate of the Connellsville High School.

Angelo Desanti, the Italian section hand, shot down Thursday by an unknown person in more than twenty shots at the Cottage State hospital. His condition is encouraging.

Southwest Railroad Freight Conductor Takes His Life in Hotel at Youngwood.

NO ONE TO PAY FOR ONE BARREL

Of Booze That Was Ordered on Authority of Fourth Ward Man.

PROMINENT ATTORNEY CALLED

Up by Phone by Distillery on Advice of Fourth Ward Faction Worker and Exploded When He Was Asked to Pay—The Wires Got Crossed.

There has been a good bit of mud-slinging at Uniontown in the primary campaign which closed Saturday, but it remained for a Connellsville ward worker to inject booze by the wholesale into the fight. A barrel of whisky was ordered from a local distillery by a man who has been active in the Fourth Ward for one of the four wardmen who are seeking nomination at Saturday's primary. And to be explicit it must be stated that the whisky was to have been delivered at a place agreed upon where it was to have been used for vote getting purposes. But there has been a hitch in the arrangements. In the first place the man who owns the place where the booze was to have been kept wanted to know whether or not the whisky was to be used for the purpose of getting votes. The distillery also wanted to know the same question.

Both men were referred to a very prominent attorney, who has served his party with distinction and credit, and who with that chapter in his past record, is at present directing the efforts of his party for a certain state of candidates. The Fourth Ward man, according to credible information, gave this attorney's name as the man who would stand good for the price of the barrel of whisky. At the dinner hour yesterday the attorney called on the man who was to deliver the booze but the attorney exploded. He fairly danced in rage at the thought of a barrel of whisky being ordered at his direction—and cost. Since then strenuous efforts have been made to get the matter straightened out and frame up the lawyer and deliver of the booze so it will be ready for distribution by tomorrow evening. It is said that the attorney is being asked for explanations, and at the same time is asking some pointed questions on account of his account of the matter. He was still in the dark as to how the wires got crossed.

Turkey Offers All Save Honor

United Press Telegram.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Turkey, Sept. 28.—The Porte is seeking under apparent pressure, disappointment, and a sense of urgency, to respond to the offer of Turkey to accept Italian terms for the settlement of the Italian-Turkish conflict.

It is not considered likely, however, that Italy in view of her firm stand and her declaration that she will not accept any arrangement whereby Turkey would retain control of that government.

Immediate hostilities are looked for in Tripoli. The Italian charge d'affaires today handed the Turkish minister an unofficial note declaring that Turkey's reply of last night refuting the allegation that "Turkey was strengthening her stand in Tripoli" by landing armed men and ammunition, was unsatisfactory, according to report today. It also said that he was expected to demand his passport.

WILL BALLOT FOR CONSTABLES HERE.

Election Officers Will Also be Nominated on Saturday.

SOME WARM CONTESTS ARE ON

The County Commissioners Announced
This Morning That Connellsville Ballots Would Carry the Names of These Officers—The Candidates.

The County Commissioners announced this morning that the candidates for constable and election officers in the seven wards of Connellsville would appear on the primary ballots to be voted on Saturday. These are the only city officers to be chosen.

The decision makes it certain there will be some warm skirmishes in the various wards. There are several contests under way for all of the offices at stake and it will add spice to the primaries. The real warm contest is promised in the Third Ward where the Democratic organization, when the city election seemed likely, put up rival election officers. The Republican ticket in an effort to prevent the nomination of F. D. Munson for magistrate. The "Bloody Third" may get out of the solid Democratic column.

The Democrats have John J. Beatty up for constable in the First Ward. The Chief J. W. Mitchell, who now holds the job, will contest with C. W. Erb for the Republican nomination.

In the Second Ward H. M. Geiger, now on the police force, is seeking the nomination by both parties, being opposed by Barthold Rottler on the Democratic ticket.

George Gregg and John Barnes are after the Republican nomination in the Third Ward in the hope of winning the job away from Charles Wilson. John Gibbons is giving Wilson a run for the Democratic nomination.

J. E. Nicholson and J. W. Howard are after the Republican nomination in the Fourth Ward while Joseph T. Crossland has come in from Bullheads township to challenge against J. E. Slonaker, an aspirant for the Democratic honor.

In the Fifth it looks all alike for Constable R. J. Stillwagon being the only man on both tickets.

A. Smith, the present incumbent, and John W. Hay seek the Republican nomination in the Sixth, the Democrats putting up no candidate on their ticket. There is no Democratic aspirant in the Seventh, either.

Policeman Joseph O'Brien and P. D. Shoemaker going gunning under Republican colors for the job.

BASKETBALL MEN ARE GETTING BUSY.

Committees Appointed to Solicit Stock Subscriptions
This Week.

GAME ASSURED FOR TEN YEARS

Once the Hall is Erected as Team Will Be Self-Supporting, the Directors Argue—Donahue Will Come Out to Jump the Center.

An enthusiastic meeting of basketball fans was held last evening in the office of Attorney J. C. Hildebr. Twenty stockholders of the Connellsville Athletic Association were present and discussed plans for the coming season.

It is desired to sell $2,000 shares of treasury stock this week, the proceeds going towards the construction of the new hall on the West Side. The shares are $5 each, non-assessable.

Once the hall is erected the game is assured for 10 years, the enthusiasts argue. The ground rent was secured for the nominal sum of $100 a year. The lot is now being cleared and if the stock is generously subscribed the real work will be started next week.

A committee of 20 will make the canvass to sell the remaining treasury stock of the association. It is believed that once a hall with adequate ventilating facilities is secured the team will be self-supporting. Steps are already under way to organize the professional basketball leagues on the same model basis that has enabled the baseball league to flourish, insuring a permanency for the sport and protection in the matter of holding players.

Word was received yesterday that Donahue, the city center, will be with the Cokers this year. Donahue was signed up last season but was unable to come west to join the team.
While word is stated that he will be in line when the season opens. He is said to be one of the best centers in the league, even better than Fodge, Ho-land, who is also on the Coker reserve list.

There are busy times around the city hall and all hands are getting ready for a hard campaign. Captain J.
Fogarty was in Johnstown Tuesday for a conference with the directors of the league. He is expected to return to Uniontown in exchange for Kincaid. There is some uncertainty whether the old Melrose club will play in this season. Some seem to doubt whether Charles O'Donnell, the star forward, will be in line as it is reported that he intends giving up the game. Uniontown has a raft of material that must be disposed of and the Cokers are probably pick up some of the discards.

Italians Still Held for Cutting

As yet the police have received no word from the Somersport county authorities relative to the disposition of the two Italians held here for a cutting at Uniontown Saturday night. Although the men have been identified as Charles and Melrose, it is still one of them is the man who slashed the foreigner at the hospital at Marketon in such a serious condition that he seems to be in no question that any interest in the case.

Officer T. M. Rull participated in the arrest of the men here Sunday night and has taken charge of the case. Yesterday he secured a positive identification through Tony Palladino, who also slashed in the case. Palladino stated back to Lockwood to make information against the men.

Unless an officer from Somersport comes for the men today, it is probable that they will be discharged as they have already been held here longer than is usually permitted.

Liveryman Fails to Find Horse Here

Liveryman Wilson Schrock of Somersport came to Connellsville yesterday hoping to find the chestnut sorrel mare taken from his stable Saturday night and not returned. A horse was found in Market street stable that seemed to answer the description of the missing animal and Chief of Police George Hetzel sent Schrock word to that effect.

When Schrock saw the horse he declared it was not his. He said he could not find the horse and the owner of the horse, who said the animal originally came from Mt. Pleasant and who claimed to be a preacher, Mr. Schrock said he wanted to know the name of the owner of the horse to hold service.

He didn't return.

Veterans Guests at Dawson Dinner

Mrs. E. T. Huxton was hostess at a weeks. He was a dispatch carrier for General Meade and stood at the General's right hand during the battle of Gettysburg.

The dinner was a very enjoyable affair and the veterans at its conclusion spent several very pleasant hours relating war experiences.

Small Blaze, Two

The fire department was called out about 9 o'clock this morning for a small fire in the home of Mrs. Michael Torrence, North Fourth street, West Junction. The fire was caused by a candle which had been left burning and had caused damage to the extent of $25. Two pet doves were suffocated by the smoke which filled the upper floor of the frame building.

The fire is believed to have been started by a three year old child playing with matches. The house is owned by Mrs. C. H. Brown.

DRAWING THE OLD SOLDIER INTO POLITICS.

The voters of Fayette county, especially the Republican voters, will be glad when this primary campaign is over. The manner in which certain pretended Republican newspapers have mixed up in it has been offensive to the members of the rank and file of the party who have been unaccustomed to such interference and who will doubtless resent it at the polls.

The Uniontown Herald, the personal organ of a Republican faction in Fayette county, has extensively exploited the candidacies of those marked down on this political interest's slate, and has persistently pursued all other candidacies with venomous hatred and vicious abuse. Not content with that, it has from time to time turned its attention upon Senator Crow, the leader of the opposing faction.

The old soldiers are having a reunion in Uniontown, and The Herald seizes upon the occasion to inform them that Senator Crow is personally responsible for the failure of the Legislature to pass a State pension bill at the last session. This statement is absurd upon its face. Senator Crow was but one of hundreds of members.

It is true he was the presiding officer of the Senate, when the Lieutenant Governor did not choose to preside himself, and in that capacity The Herald told a very much embellished tale to the effect that when a Senator rose and "asked" that some consideration be given to the old soldiers' pension bill, Senator Crow waved him aside and ordered the Senate to proceed to other matters.

As presiding officer, Senator Crow could not "order the Senate," save only that it be in order. The Senate is a dignified and courteous body, even in the closing hours of the session when the House sometimes gets in a riotous state. If any Senator asked consideration of the pension bill, he was either out of order and was refused, or he was in order and was heard. After a personal acquaintance of a score of years, we are prepared to say that Senator Crow is not in the habit of "waving people aside," but rather of clapping them cordially by the hand.

The attempt of The Herald to inject politics into the soldiers' reunion will not be very cordially welcomed by the veterans who have lived long enough to distinguish the fair fighter from the ambushed skulker.

EQUITABLE COAL AND COKE RATES.

The coke operators of the Connelville region and the coal operators of the Pittsburgh district will await with interest the result of the protest of the West Virginia coal and coke operators against an advance in their rates, particularly to Lake points.

The Connelville and Pittsburgh coke and coal operators demand lower rates because of the shorter haul, the running of solid trains, the backhaul of ore and other substantial considerations. They have shown that they are paying relatively much higher rates than those paid in the West Virginia and Kentucky fields. The railroads admit the justice of this complaint, but they naturally seek to remedy it in the other way. They want to raise the West Virginia and Kentucky rates instead of lowering the Connelville and Pittsburgh rates.

For obvious reasons the Connelville and Pittsburgh operators would prefer that their rates be lowered and those of their neighbors on the South remain undisturbed. However, if by any chance the reverse proposition should prevail, our coke and coal operators will be immeasurably better off than they have ever been before.

Coal and coke rates, like most other freight rates, went by favor until within recent years, and now the trouble is to adjust them to equity.

NATURAL GAS AND HOT AIR POLITICS.

The Uniontown Herald accuses Candidate S. Ray Shelby of being the representative of the Fayette County Natural Gas Company, which it is pleased to dub the Gas Trust. The Herald has an ineradicable aversion for Candidate Shelby and the gas company, to the former because he is the law partner of Senator Crow, and to the latter because it raised the gas rate of the newspapers from 10 to 25 cents per thousand.

However, most people will consider it no crime to be friends of Senator Crow, and there is no good reason why the gas company should discriminate in favor of the newspapers. There possibly was a reason, but we repeat it was not a good reason, and the honest newspapers in the county welcomed the advance in their rate because the advance relieved them from an implied obligation to the gas company. A newspaper which only represents and advocates the interests of the people should accept no favors from any interest.

The Herald's opposition to the Gas Trust dated from the day the gas rate was increased. In the name of public virtue, it has ever since been crying its private grievance. For the private information of our sorely-suspecting contemporaries, we beg to assure it that we are still paying the regular custom rate for our natural gas. In the eyes of the company we are no better than any other domestic consumer, and in our judgment the company is quite correct in this conclusion.

Abe Martin

Nothing will stop some folks but a small infirmity for Uncle F. Bush is so young as not to be a Niagara Falls three times.

There has been a great deal of hot air in this primary campaign, most of which has been coming from The Herald office, but this is the first emission of natural gas. Natural gas is more dangerous than the hot air. The latter burns nobody, but the former is liable to explode; if in this case it does, however, it will damage nobody but The Herald people.

The Uniontown Herald, discussing the candidacy of Logan Bush for Controller, prints a very interesting sketch of the former Register and Recorder with the false and misleading statement that at the time of his announcement "the Republican newspapers of the county paid him this tribute." It is not unnatural for The Herald to consider itself "the Republican newspaper of the county" but it had better be understood that the fulsome flattery of Candidate Bush was written and printed exclusively in The Herald office, and presumably paid for by the line of political advertising.

The Uniontown Herald inquires whether honesty is a crime. The nature of the inquiry seems to indicate that the Herald, at least in politics is morally afraid of committing the crime of being honest.

The Uniontown Herald is still trying to bridge it.

It is rather difficult to separate the bridge from the County Commissioners as a body. The Uniontown Herald wants to rescue Commissioners Blaney from the fangs of this political monster, and leave Commissioners Langley and McClelland to be devoured at the polls. It won't work. The three Commissioners must stand on the bridge together or fall together. There can be no discrimination. Their names are all on the warrants. They all participated in the supervision of the work. What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. They are all honest or they are all rascals. The Courier is free to say that it believes them all honest.

The foreign political clubs of the Connelville region are getting quite active, and the primary candidates are getting correspondingly busy.

There were hundreds of other things to be done—the opening of a big new store such as this is a gigantic undertaking. At least our task was done and now we extend a cordial invitation to everybody in Connellsville to visit us. Since we first rocked the cradle of our business in Connellsville we have steadily grown on a diet of highest qualities and fairest prices, until it has become necessary for us to get into newer, larger, and more convenient quarters. This opening event is epochal of a success of which we are justly proud—epochal of progress in merchandising in this section of Connellsville, and we are in the mood to generously celebrate it and accord you a cordial invitation to celebrate with us in an

There is only one candidate for county office in this locality, Berkey H. Boyd on the Republican ticket for County Treasurer, who is known as a strong campaigner all over the county, and who will get the home vote. The local situation according to specimen ballots received yesterday is like this:

The Republican local ballot will contain the following names of candidates: For Justice of the Peace, N. G. Peterson. For Auditor, four years, one to be nominated, W. H. Ritchie and Albert J. Strickler, and for two years, William H. Miller. The School Directors, for six years, vote for three, are O. I. Hess, A. C. Overholt, O. A. Rush, Homer M. ALL STOMACH TROUBLE VANISHES AFTER TAKING A LITTLE DIAPEPSIN.

No Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Headache Five Minutes Later.

If you had some Diapepsin handy and would take a little now your stomach distress or indigestion would vanish in five minutes and you would feel fine.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour out-of-order stomach before you realize it. If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lumps like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn that is a sign of indigestion. Ask your Pharmacist for a 50 cent box of Diapepsin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal girding. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no undigested food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is certain cure for upset of order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there. Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is at any drug store waiting for you.

These large 50-cent boxes contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other stomach disturbance.

HUNDREDS OF DOGS SHOT.

Washington County Towns Quarantined Because of Rabies.

CANONSBURG, Pa., Sept. 28—(Special)—Because of a general epidemic of rabies among livestock in Smith, Cross Creek and Mt. Pleasant townships, this county, all near here, a general quarantine has been ordered by Dr. C. A. Marshall of the State Livestock Sanitary Board, and 300 dogs in those townships have been shot in the last two days as a result.

The quarantine applies mostly to cows and horses of which 15 have died from the disease after being bit ten recently. In Westland, a mining town in Mt. Pleasant township, near here, 47 dogs were killed yesterday.

FALL OPENING

At the Store of M. Neyman & Company Held Wednesday.

The annual fall showing of millinery yesterday at the parlors of M. Neyman & Company yesterday attracted many visitors. All day the parlors were thronged with feminine shoppers who were eager to view the charming creations in millinery. Two hats shown were in the rich shades of brown, purple blues and greens. The black and white hat, which is always considered very smart, was also shown in many different styles.

Among the newest models in millinery is the small bonnet effect which fits snugly to the head and has two side open flaps. The grandmotherly bonnet, fashioned in different shades and the draped turbans were greatly admired. A number of very stunning tailored hats were also exhibited.

Reverendness of Respect
Whereas the Great and Supreme Ruler of the universe has in His infinite wisdom removed from among us one of our worthy and esteemed co-workers, Albert Heft, one, who has the long and intimate relation held with him in the faithful discharge of his duties as a member of the Board of Education of Upper Lyons township makes it eminently befitting that we record our appreciation of him therefore.

Be it Resolved That the wisdom and interest which he has exercised in the work of our organization will be held in grateful remembrance.
Resolved That the sudden removal of this life from our midst leaves a vacancy and a shadow that will be deeply realized by all the members of the Board, by the teachers and all friends of education and will prove a serious loss to the community and the public.

Resolved That with deep sympathy with the bereaved relatives of the deceased we express our hope that even so great a loss to us all may be overruled for good by him who death all things will.
Resolved That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of this organization a copy placed in the local paper and a copy forwarded to the bereaved family.

Notable Stocks of Fall Goods

AT UNION SUPPLY COMPANY STORES.

After months of purchasing for our 63 large department stores, we are now able to state, the goods are all in. The lines are complete; every department spick and span, with the new fall styles. We are early in the field, yet the demand is already large for the new fall fixings, and the indications are, that the people are all eager to get their fall outfits early. We therefore suggest, if you want the choice of the lines, do not put off your visit too long. Of course, we will keep the stocks up, and have good lines during the entire season, but the choicest goods we will have, are now on display and selling.

THE NEW FALL STOCKS EXTEND TO THE GROCERY DEPARTMENTS.

Do not imagine we are not getting new goods here. It is a daily occurrence, there are carloads of goods arriving daily for our grocery departments to be distributed throughout our stores. In every line of groceries, we handle only the best. This includes coffee, tea, sugar, molasses, syrup, canned goods of all kinds, spices, beans, soap, etc., etc. In the line of flour, we have our special brand "Union" We challenge any fancy patent flour manufactured in the United States to excel it in quality. The enormous quantity we sell of it, is the best evidence we can produce. We will not attempt to enumerate further the many good lines which you have daily use for, they are sold in our grocery department. We urge you to give this department a trial.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR CORONER Vote For

Dr. Chas. W. Utts,
OF CONNELLSVILLE.

Republican primary, September 30th, 1911.

Dear Sir:

I wish to announce that I am a candidate for Coroner of Fayette County, subject to decision of Republican primary, Saturday, September 30, 1911.

I was born in year 1876 at Latrobe, Pa., and being a poor boy, realized early in life that I would have an uphill fight; but being of an ambitious nature and possessing an illustrious desire to better my condition, I worked with a will and passed public and high school at an early age. Then by employment as a clerk for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company I saved enough money to enable me to take a course at the Central State Normal School at Lock Haven, Pa. Still desiring a higher education, I entered Grove City College and graduated in the year 1896.

"Lithon" came to Fayette County and became a payroll clerk for the H. C. Frick Coke Company at Forton, Miss., where, by thrift and economy I saved enough money to begin the study of medicine at the Pittsburgh University and graduated at this institution as a Doctor of Medicine in year 1905.

Locating in Fayette county I soon built up a large practice among my former friends.

I have always been a staunch Republican and for past twelve years have been an active worker in the Republican party of Fayette county. I am a member of the First Presbyterian Church, Conneltsville; also a member of the Order of Ironolds, Protective Home Circle, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks and Surgeon for H. C. Frick Coke Company; also examiner for Carnegie Relief Fund and Ladies' Catholic Mutual Benefit Association.

My opponent, the present Coroner, defeated me four years ago, and has announced that he is a candidate for re-election. After making his announcement he went away on an extended vacation. His intention is to make no personal canvass, but expects the voting populace to hand him a second term without any effort upon his part.

I have made an earnest effort to canvass the greater part of Fayette county and meet with as many of the voters as is possible.

I wish to ask the voters of Fayette county to vote and support me at the approaching primary and if I am nominated and elected I will promise to be a real live Coroner.

Thanking you in advance for your influence and support, I am,

Very respectfully,

DR. CHAS. W. UTTS.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER,

William S. Craft
Luzerne Township.

Letters From Maj. General D. McM. Gregg, Reading, Pa., and Col. and Brev. Brigadier Gen. John P. Taylor of Reedsville, Pa., Under Whom He Served During the Civil War.

Reading, Pa., May 6th, 1911.

Dear Captain Craft:

I am informed that you are a candidate for the office of Treasurer of Fayette County. I sincerely hope that you will be nominated, and elected by an overwhelming majority. If the measure of your claims upon the suffrage of the people of your county, be applied to a rival candidate, (unless the latter be an equally deserving old soldier) it should give you such an advantage as to make your election sure.

I am always interested in the candidacy of an old soldier for an office or position for which he is fitted, and when the old soldier is one who served under my command, and whose record I know to be good, like yours, then I am doubly interested. Your fine record as an officer of the First Pennsylvania Cavalry, the loss of your limb in that hotly contested engagement at Hays Shop in May 1864, will certainly secure you the support of your fellow old soldiers, and other voters should be glad of an opportunity of showing their gratitude to one who served them so well in the great war that was waged in defense of their country.

Trusting that you are well and with my best wishes for your success.

Sincerely yours,

D. McM. Gregg.

My Dear Captain:

It gives me great pleasure to know you are a candidate for nomination for Treasurer in your home county. Your record as a soldier is almost unassailable. The records show that you were mentioned in General orders a number of times for distinguished services on the battlefield. Causing your promotion from a private to Captain of your Company, I am glad I can say you were one of the most efficient officers in my regiment, being on duty constantly until the loss of your leg at Hays Shop, Va., May 23, 1864. In that engagement the official records show that the two battalions you commanded used 17,000 rounds of cartridges. I want to say to all comrades and others that you were a brave soldier, an honorable and upright gentleman, and in my opinion in every way fitted to fill the office of County Treasurer to the entire satisfaction of the people. I only wish I could reach you with my vote.

I am very truly,

John P. Taylor.

The Gamblers.

The Story of Charles Klein's Greatest Play.

Copyright, 1910, by the M. V. Evening Journal Publishing Company.

Because a little clique of men had decided that they and they only should engage in the banking business on a large scale and had skillfully secured control of the medium—the actual coin—should five honest men, solvent twice over, be driven to ruin and disgrace?

Should they be forced to walk through life with the burden of the disasters of thousands of innocent men upon their souls because a merciless plutocracy had willed it so? By technical violation of the law—a law that his enemies violated every day of their lives—he could put his hands on $4,000,000 in gold!

His own interests and the interests of thousands of innocent and trusting men had been placed in jeopardy by a deliberate, criminal conspiracy.

Had he not the right to fight them with their own weapons?

Who would be injured but these men who had plunged the nation into a frightful panic for their own selfish ends?

If he could beat them, if he could keep the doors of his bank open, the staggering industrial world might lean upon his strength until it had recovered its balance and the suffering of millions—the inevitable suffering—would never be.

There are two higher laws than the Federal banking acts," he said to himself. "One is the duty of protecting the innocent, and the other is the law of self-preservation." And he touched the table.

"Thomas, do you happen to know if my father is still in the smoking room?" he asked, as the servant appeared at the door.

"Yes, sir, he's waiting for you, sir. He said I was to send you up as soon as you came in."

"All right, Thomas. Is there some cracked tin up there?"

"Yes, sir."

"Very well. Some gentlemen will be here later. Show them in here and tell me when they come."

"Yes, sir."

As he entered the smoking-room, his father arose up with an exclamation of alarm. "There is a deep line of worry in the thin, parchment-like skin of his face. He had been uneasy when Wilbur did not come home for dinner and the feverish eyes and grim, tense set of his boy's mouth and jaw did not reassure him."

"What on earth has happened, Wilbur?" he cried. "This is a terrible bear-rabbit I understand that the money is pouring out of every bank in the city in torrents."

"That's about the size of it, father," the young man quietly replied. "Torrents is the word."

"And how are we—will we?" began Mr. Emerson anxiously.

"Oh, we're all right," answered the son, calmly, without turning his head from the buffet where he was busily concocting a highball. "All we need is a little ready cash and then we can laugh at the whole business."

"A little ready cash?" echoed his father. "Why, surely, with all our resources."

"Yes, yes! I know!" interrupted Wilbur, turning. "Under ordinary circumstances there wouldn't be any trouble about it at all. But these are rather more than ordinary circumstances."

His father dropped heavily into a chair.

"But I don't understand!" he protested feebly. "Surely, the clearing house—"

"The clearing house refused our paper at half-past two this afternoon," Wilbur broke in quietly. His father stared at him, dumb with amazement.

"See here, father," he went on gently. "I don't want to make any mystery of this business, nor do I want to alarm you needlessly, but the facts are these:

"The big fellows are after us at last. They caught us just at the time when the string of banks was completed and before all of them had secured a sure footing. They knocked the bottom out of the market and there was a general run for cash. We're solvent—once and half again over—but we can't stand another run like this two hours this afternoon."

"It's due to start at 9 in the morning, and we have to have the actual coin in the bank by noon or—"

He shrugged his shoulders. "For the first and last time in the financial history of the family a bank with the name of Emerson connected with it will be forced to—suspend payment."

"And then?" "The world's were barely audible."

"And then we'll go into the hands of a receiver and a lot of trusting men and women will suffer. They'll all get their money—eventually. But the trouble is that they'll get a lot of ours at the same time if we are forced to suspend. I don't like to give up the fruits of four years' work."

"The elder man wet his dry lips and cleared his throat. His face, clean shaven, rose quickly after the moment of shock had passed."

"What can you—what can we do, Wilbur?" he asked calmly.

The young man stopped in his march up and down the room and faced his father with his long jaw thrust out.

"Just this," he replied firmly. "In any case, father, your private fortune will amount to more than $1,000,000, won't it? Well, so will mine—even after the receiver gets through. I know where I can get $4,000,000 in gold. Will you give me your note for $1,000,000?"

The old man stared at him for nearly a minute in utter bewilderment.

"But, Wilbur," he protested at last, "this crisis is going to be as bad as you say—my unsecured note for a million!"

Young Emerson winced.

"Never mind about that, father," he broke in, sharply. "I'll attend to the details. The man—the place where I'll get the money—your note will be all right."

Old Mr. Emerson acknowledged the implied compliment with a stately nod.

"Just as you say, Wilbur," he replied, quietly. "I will leave everything to you. Would you like to have this note now?"

"Yes, I would," was the prompt response, and he drew out five long slips of paper, looked them over and handed one to his father. It was a note for $1,000,000, lacking only the signature.

The old man adjusted his spectacles, took out a fountain pen and gravely signed it without even reading it over.

Thomas opened the door.

"Mr. Cowper, sir, in the library," he said.

"All right, Thomas. Tell him I'll be right down."

The door closed noiselessly. Emerson took the note his father held out with a grave, "Thank you, father, I think you'd better go to bed. We younger men are going to discuss ways and means a little in the library."

"Very well, my boy. Oh, Wilbur!"

The young man paused with his hand on the knob and turned his head. His father walked slowly up, put a hand on each of the stalwart shoulders and looked long and searchingly into his son's strained, white face. "Be careful, my boy," he said, gently.

Wilbur slowly dropped his head and held the door for the old man to pass out.

"I will, father," he said, gravely.

Cowper was prematurely gray, and his weak face, drawn with fright, made him look like an old man.

"Well," said Emerson, evenly, as he entered. "The other was pacing feverishly about the room."

"I tell you, Emerson—" he began in a hoarse voice.

"There, there," interrupted the commander. "You didn't have any luck, eh?"

"Nobody will lend us a cent! And I heard this evening that the clearing house had refused our paper!" The voice was barely more than a whisper.

Emerson nodded. "I knew it this afternoon," he said, calmly. "Now, don't excite yourself! You couldn't borrow any money. Well, I didn't think you could. I couldn't either—but I can buy some. Now, wait until the others get here."

"For God's sake, Dilly, give me a drink," cried his partner, holding out a shaking hand. In a few moments Thomas appeared with decanters and siphons and Emerson took two big drinks before he attempted to continue the discussion.

Emerson watched him curiously. He could not understand a coward, and for a moment he wished that Cowper had never been one of them. He refused to permit him to utter a syllable until Tooker and Raymond arrived.

They came in together, Raymond talking volubly and Tooker solemnly. With the formality of a "Good evening," Raymond switched his fire to Emerson as soon as he entered the room. Twice Tooker and the young leader tried to head him off, but in vain. Emerson took out his watch and laid it, face up, on the table. He studied it gravely as Raymond went on with his tirade.

With any sort of management they would never have found themselves in this fix. He had always been opposed to expanding beyond ten banks. It was criminal folly. He could never forgive himself for consenting—and so on. At last he paused for breath, and Emerson looked up.

"You've been talking eight minutes—eight valuable minutes," he said, quietly. "And I haven't heard you make any suggestions that will help us."

"Well, make one yourself!" snapped Raymond. He dropped into a chair, jammed a cigar into his mouth and chewed it savagely.

"I was about to—as soon as I could get a word in," replied Emerson, calmly. He rose from his seat at the table and looked at his partners.

Cowper was sitting on the edge of a chair, his head bowed, elbows resting on knees and a highball nursed in both hands. Raymond was slumping at him from the depths of a big leather chair. Tooker, his folded arms resting on his young leader with calm eyes. There was a deep silence of several moments, and then Emerson's quiet voice broke it.

"None of you know a man named De Longueville? Not well, possibly. I wouldn't either, but he wants to marry my sister. He happens to be Consul General for the French Republic at the port of New York. The French always have more money than they can invest and they learned some way more than ten days ago that that gang was about to land on us. The result is that he has $4,000,000 in gold—in gold! He is supposed to sell it to the highest bidder, but there will be no bidding. He will sell it to us for $1,000,000."

Cowper's glass slipped from his fingers and crashed to the floor. Raymond all but swallowed his cigar as he leaped to his feet. Tooker alone appeared unmoved. He was watching his friend's face and he knew there was more to come.

"Four millions in gold are worth six just now, much less five," he said, gravely. "But what does he want as collateral?"

"I was coming to that," Emerson went on, with a quick glance at the questioner. "I have here"—he laid it on the table—"my father's note for $1,000,000. Here are four other notes ready for our signatures."

"What?" shouted Raymond, his face working with excitement. "Will he take out notes as security?"

Leisnering Wins the Lynch Cup

The Leisnering team of the H. C. Frick Coke Company's league won possession of the Lynch cup for the ensuing year. Possession was determined yesterday when Leisnering defeated Lemont and finished the season with nine victories and one defeat. Hecla No. 2, the strong Tracer aggregation, picked up easy wins early in the season, lost two of their 10 games, one to Leisnering and the other to Southwest No. 1.

The pennant-declaring game was played at Lemont in a drizzling rain. Wild Bill Sheets was on the rubber for the cup contenders and allowed but one hit in five innings. Rain interfered with the contest in the sixth, the score being 5 to 1 in Leisnering's favor, but Lemont had only one man out when the game was called during a driving shower which swept the field. The score reverted back to the fifth inning and is, officially, 4 to 0 in favor of the winners.

The sixth inning saw sloppy play on both sides because the ball was so wet it could not be handled cleanly. Lemont made a spurt in the last half of the inning but J. P. Lyons interfered.

A Battle Royal Will be This Game

What promises to be one of the best games pulled off in the Morgan valley for some time will be played Saturday afternoon at 3:30 when the fast Mammoth team will try conclusions with a combination known as Owensdale, composed of the fastest young baseball material in this end of the coke region. This young material is sure to be organized into a team next season and it is left to the fans to decide whether it will be a winning team. In the lineup will be Robbins, rated as one of the best young catchers in the coke region, H. Fruey, Frank Pruey and Kilbuck, of the Morgan team; King, Elchior and Suttie, of the Scottdale Key-stones; Hostetler and Fazenbaker of the Elverson Keystones and several other fast young players who are known in baseball circles throughout the coke region.

Mammoth will come well prepared with a team that has been but recently strengthened to considerable extent. Most of the fans of this end of the region know the speedy calibre of the Mammoth team and their putting up a fast game is assured. After the game a festival will be held for the benefit of the pitted combination. The management has duly recognized the evening session of the Sunday School convention to be held in the Owensdale church that evening and asks all interested in the church work to first attend the evening session. The festival proper will not begin until 8:30.

HAIR THAT FASCINATES.

Who Wants Lustrous Hair Full of Life and Beauty.

Start now, madam, September is just the month to begin to acquire a glorious head of hair of which you will be justly proud during the social events of the wintertime.

If you haven't used PARASIAN SAGE you aren't on the high road to hair beauty. PARASIAN SAGE is the most delightful preparation that destroys the dandruff germs and by so doing removes in a short time the cause of dandruff, falling hair, itching scalp, faded and lifeless hair.

Dandruff germs are obstructionists; they prevent the hair from receiving its proper nourishment by ruthlessly devouring the same nourishment. Use PARASIAN SAGE for one week and note the wonderful improvement. A. A. Clarke guarantees it, 50 cents a bottle.

Max Thompson III.
Mrs. S. H. Goldsmith was called to New York city last night by the serious illness of her father, Max Thompson, a former Conneltsville resident who is suffering from pneumonia, pleurisy, trouble and other complications.

When We Speak of Popular-Priced Silks

We do not mean poor or old silks marked at a price that deceives you into thinking them a "bargain."

Not a yard of such silk in the Wright-Metzler stores.

We mean new and good silks, inexpensively priced, with more wearing power in them than you can usually get for the same money.

Today the Carpet Room Begins Another season of Helpfulness

New Carpets, Rugs, Etc.

The Biggest and Best Stocks

After a season of strikingly unusual distribution of floor-coverings, curtains, etc., new bales of rugs and new rolls of carpets have been put in place for your pleasure and profit. This carpet room, less than a year old, started last season late, yet made a remarkable showing. Doing business with the best merchandise at ridiculously little prices turned the trick. Asking two or three prices for a thing because people had been used to paying it was not countenanced here—nor will it be—in the carpet room any more than in any other part of the store. Come—prove the truth of this statement.
